The Warrenton Female College is now offered for sale, on reasonable terms. This College has been in successful operation, for over twelve years, and, during that time, it has earned a reputation as an Institution of learning, second to none in N. C.

The location is such as to warrant a full attendance of pupils, being very accessible from any point, especially the Eastern portions of N. C. and Va.

The Committee, who have been empowered to make sale of this property, deem it unnecessary to say more of this Institution as its character for a high grade of scholarship, and the elevated standard of morals inculcated under the eye and supervision of its late President, E. The society in which this College is located is known to be equal to any in the South.

There is now a sufficiency of Buildings and other Conveniences attached to this Real Estate, to conduct a large and flourishing school. Another War Indicated.

The turbulent and agitating revolutionary spirit, evinced by the Radicals, grows no better. Conservatism has unfortunately eked out entirely among the ultra men of the Republican party. Gen. Sherman, the other day, in a brief address to the students of Yale College, said that he had had enough of war, but that they, the students, would live to participate in one, in comparison with which the late war was a small affair.

In connection with this idea, we find that the sentiment is a growing one, especially, too, among Northern people, both officers and civilians, that the war is not over; and the uncertainty, doubt and anxiety, which still hang on the Southern mind and weigh down its energies, seem to have fixed in the Southern people an impression that the end is not yet. Yet, among the thoughtful in the South, the idea of war, in which they are to participate, does not enter into their calculations. We hear on all sides, "we have had enough of it,"—the past is sufficient." How this may be, in the whirl of events, no human tongue can say, yet we find, everywhere, a desire, on the part of the Southern people, for peace, quietude and the successful search after those natural benefits which will again bring recuperation and prosperity.

Every phase of the conflict, now waging against the President by the Radical Congress, evolves some new feature, and reveals the fixed purpose of that party to succeed in holding the reins of government, at the risk of a direct conflict of arms with the President and his supporters. Mr. Raymond, of the New York Times, who, by the way, is not so reliable as he might be, because of his vascillating course, has recently, in a letter to the Times, revealed the designs of the Radicals, and gives the secret history of the late resolution passed by the House, calling on the States to organize, discipline and equip their militia, and directing that two-thirds of the arms, ordnance and ammunition now under custody of the general Government be distributed among the States—the distribution among the loyal States to take place immediately, and that among the States lately in rebellion to be postponed until further orders.

Mr. Raymond says the passage of this resolution is the first step towards preparation for another civil war. Mr. Raymond further says:

"Most of the leading and reflecting Radicals in Congress take this view of the political future: If the Fall elections result in the choice of Northern Democrats enough to constitute, when added to the members from the Southern States, a majority of the House, they assume that this majority, thus constituted, will claim to be the Congress, and will act accordingly, and that they will be recognized by the President as the body to which he will send his message, and whose sessions he will, if the necessity should arise, protect by military force. They assert, on the other hand, that the Union members from the loyal States—if they constitute a majority from those States—will claim to be the only legal Congress, and will, if necessary, invoke an insurrection of the people to maintain them in that position. They do not in the least conceal their purpose, in the event of such a collision, to appeal to force, and to drive the rival Congress, with the President and his Cabinet and supporters, into the Potomac," to use language of one of the ablest and most sincere of their number.

If you will recall the remarks of Mr. Boutwell, of Massachusetts, in last week's first caucus, you will see this movement clearly foreshadowed—indeed avowed. He declared his belief that an issue of force was rapidly approaching, and that we must be prepared to meet it. He acts, and all who co-operate with him in these measures profess to act, under the apprehension that the President intends to resort to force—that he means to disperse the present Congress on its reassembling in December, if it refuses to admit the Southern members; and Mr. Farnsworth ascribed to Mr. Seward the declaration that this Congress should never assemble unless the Southern members were admitted—in support of this belief. I need scarcely say that Mr. Seward never made any remark of the kind, nor that the project ascribed to the President is purely an invention, or at best the crazy dream of a political nightmare. But in either case it serves the same purpose."

WE PUBLISH to-day, from the National Intelligencer, copious extracts from one of the most cogent and compact arguments that has yet been presented against the policy and designs of the Radical Revolutionists. It is in the form of a letter addressed to the Editor of the New York Tribune, and, as will be perceived, is from the pen of George W. Weston, Esq., of Maine.—Mr. W. was the founder of the Republican newspaper at Washington. The reader, who may peruse his communication, will require no voucher as to his superior abilities, and enlarged, conservative views. While there are some sentiments contained in it which, of course, we [illegible] the tenor of the whole [illegible] are sure, no one will [illegible] it.

The Lecture System.

It is a reproach to this community, and has long been a reflection upon its intelligence, that we manifest, ordinarily, so great an indifference to public intellectual entertainments. We do not think, however, that this defect is, by any means, confined to this community. We know of a recent instance, where a learned and eminent Divine in a sister city, who was announced for weeks beforehand to deliver a lecture upon a subject of general interest and historical importance, was compelled to give the result of his laborious investigations and research to an audience of scarcely thirty persons. Nor is the lamentable and culpable indifference in this matter peculiar to North-Carolina. It is a Southern fault, and one which should be remedied,—and the sooner the better.

What is needed is, that instruction, education, should be popularized, should be made easily accessible to all portions of the community. In no manner can this be so readily and successfully accomplished as though the medium of cheap public lectures. It is such a system that has diffused so much of practical intelligence and information among the laboring classes at the North, and in England and Scotland. It is to such an instrumentality that the world of science is indebted for a Hugh Miller, who traced the foot-prints of the Creator on the mountain and in the mine, and grandly harmonized the teachings of Geology with the teachings of the Bible. He, and many an other profound thinker and benefactor in the world of letters, conceived their first undefined aspirations after fame, felt their first thirst for knowledge, and saw the first glimmering dawn of their future greatness, under the influence, probably, of some cheap lecture in the quiet village hall or church.

It is not only in an educational point of view that the system is productive of happy results, but the moral benefits are almost incalculable. By affording the people,—and especially the young,—opportunities and occasions for rational enjoyment, combined with mental improvement and social intercourse, time, which might otherwise be consumed in idleness or dissipation, is profitably employed.

We have not the leisure to enlarge upon the subject and to present it to our people in its many imposing aspects. We should hail with delight, as an evidence of political, moral and social recuperation, superior to any yet exhibited in our midst, a more general disposition and growing desire to patronize the diffusion of popular knowledge, through the medium of public lectures.

IT WILL BE SEEN that the Radicals in Congress are again attempting to ride rough-shod over the Constitution. Stevens proposes that when Congress adjourns it shall do so subject to the call of the Speakers of the two Houses. The Constitution expressly lodges the power to convene Congress in special session in the hands of the President. When such things are done in the face of day, and in defiance of the high safe-guards of the supreme law of the land, there can be nothing ahead of us but turbulence, anarchy and strife. In this connection, we would call attention to the significant prediction of the Hon. Montgomery Blair, at a late Democratic meeting in Pennsylvania.

THE TENNESSEE cheat has been consummated. The spurious and bogus Legislature of that State, under the infamous sway of Brownlow,—representing about one-fourth of the people of the State, and that fourth principally consisting of squatters and foreigners,—has, by compulsory measures, ratified the Constitutional amendment. This is the grossest fraud of this age of political iniquities. It will be perceived that, even now, Stevens opposes the admission of Tennessee. She hasn't eaten dirt enough yet, it seems. A warning to the other States of the South!

RECONSTRUCTION.

Extract from a Letter from Geo. W. Weston, OF MAINE.

ADDRESSED TO THE N. Y. TRIBUNE.

"The third section of the Constitutional amendment disqualifies forever from being a Senator or Representative in Congress, or an elector of President and Vice President, and from holding any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State, all persons who, "having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State Legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, to support the Constitution of the United States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the laws, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof." The description of the persons excluded is so sweeping as to embrace almost everybody of any consideration in the Southern States. An oath to support the Constitution of the United States is, by that Constitution, required to be taken by members of the State Legislatures and "all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and the several States." When everybody is reckoned who has been a member of a State Legislature, or a Justice of the Peace, or an executive officer of any kind, few are left, except the very young, for whose exclusion from office it is worth while, in any aspect, to provide.—For all substantial purposes, the exclusion might as well have been of all persons engaged in the rebellion or giving it aid and comfort. Indeed, universal exclusion would have been better even than this defective enumeration of classes, which gives an outlet of escape to a justly obnoxious class—the officers of the army and navy who deserted their colors and went over to the enemy.

If the description of the persons to be excluded is thus sweeping, the description of the offices from which they are to be excluded is not less so. It is from every "office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any State," high or low, and of every class, not excepting the merely clerical. No Southern rebel who, at any period of his life, had sworn to support the Constitution of the United States, can ever be a militia officer, or a justice of the peace, or a county clerk, or a deputy sheriff.—It is difficult to conceive of a proscription of a whole population more thoroughly devised and perfected at every point. "Nothing to compare with it, or in any way resembling it, is found in the history of modern times, in the many cases which have occurred of the victory of one party over another in civil wars within the same country, or of the subjection of one country to another by subjugation. The exclusion of a whole people from their own local offices, was not thought of even by Nicholas I., when he was dealing with a conquered people who had incurred all the penalties of rebellion as well as war. In this famous ukase of February 26, 1832, setting the affairs of Poland, after the crushing of a great rebellion in 1831, a ukase in other respects so severe as to draw down the denunciation of the liberal press of Europe, and of General Lafayette in the French Chambers, Nicholas not only did not proscribe the conquered Poles from office, but he expressly declared, in article 7, that they should "be empowered to assume dignities, or to exercise public functions, according to personal merits or talents."

In neither of the political settlements of France, in 1814 and in 1815, which were mixed cases of foreign conquest and of restoring an old dynasty having partisans at home as well as foreign allies, was any proscription of the conquered party from office either prescribed by law or practised in fact. Louis XVIII. constituted his chamber of peers, taking 91 of the old senators of Napoleon and 12 dignitaries of the Empire to only 32 Legitimists. The marshals of Napoleon were his ministers of war, and in no branch of the public service was there proscription of the adherents of the exiled Emperor. Norway was settled on the same principles after its conquest in 1814 by Bernadotte, who knew how to reign, and who has left his throne to his posterity. He agreed to govern Norway through Norwegians, and in the manner fixed by their own Diet of Eidswold. In our own immediate times, although atrocious cruelties attended the suppression of the great Hungarian rebellion, the House of Hapsburg did not venture the experiment of humiliating Hungary by the exclusion of those who had revolted from all offices, local and imperial. Nor were the seceding cantons of Switzerland reduced to any such condition of political slavery as that. The history of the English presents no example of it, in the fury of their civil wars, or even in their treatment of Ireland. All governments must and do require present fealty in public functionaries, and for more reasons than those which dictate its requirement in those who are merely citizens or subjects. But to punish past rebellion, or resistance, by continued, perpetual, and universal disabilities, is what no Government has yet done, and is what will not be done by the people of the United States, when time has given opportunity for their sober second thought.

Let us not be misled by mere words. Treason is the highest of crimes, and, even under our own mild system, is punishable with death.—But neither that punishment, nor any severe individual punishments, can or ought to be inflicted upon whole populations, nor can whole populations be guilty of the offence of treason in the sense of the criminal code. When States and peoples levy organized war, all lesser facts become merged and lost in the larger one, and the whole subject passes from the domain of the lawyer to the domain of the statesman.—As between the two sections of this country, what we have been engaged in is not the capture or dispersal of traitors, but the prosecution of war upon a scale of magnitude of which the history of the world presents no example; and what we have now to do is to confirm by a wise policy the peace which has been conquered by the bravery of our soldiers and the patriotic persistency of our people. The medicament for the times is not to be found in criminal codes, but in that higher philosophy which can deal with great facts in a manner worthy of them.

We must govern the Southern States by military rule under the right of conquest, or we must restore to them the faculty of self-government, frankly and without reserve. No middle term will in the end be found to be possible.—It is an idle mockery to talk of reconstructing such States as South Carolina and Georgia and Mississippi, with the total exclusion of rebels from the exercise of public functions. They will submit with more patience, as they can submit with less humiliation, to the control of military Governors, than to the domination of a handful of their own citizens, detested at home as false to Southern interests, and of whom too many have never been anything better than two-faced trimmers.

Guaranties are demanded. Doubtless they are needed, but they can be found abundantly in the reduction of the political power of the South, by a just change in the basis of representation, and in the prerogative of Congress, which nobody questions, to determine when, under all the circumstances, representatives shall be admitted from the Southern States.—Guaranties for the future are not found in disabilities, which will keep alive for a generation the hateful memories of discord.

Punishments are demanded. They have already been inflicted, and in such measure as to move the pity of the world. For the offences of populations, penalties must fall upon them as populations, and not as individuals, and must so fall, alas! (such is the imperfection of human retribution,) upon the innocent as well as the guilty. If the South has greatly erred or sinned, so also has it greatly suffered. No lacking feature would make the picture of its misery more sombre. Blasted fields, towns destroyed by conflagration, rural homesteads converted into charred ruins, public communications broken up, alluvials wider and richer than those of Egypt changed into noxious wastes by the destruction, through the confusion and inattention of war, of defences against the floods which had occupied the labors of generations; wounded men everywhere appealing to the charity of those who are only less miserable than themselves; all trust funds of colleges, of hospitals, and of dead men's estates, engulfed in the common catastrophe; youth deprived of education; the provision made by foresight for old age, for the dependent sex, and for tender childhood, swept away; proud men eating the bitter bread of exile and poverty in every country which will receive them; the princely affluence of semi-tropical agriculture vanished like a dream, and remembered only like a dream to aggravate the want of the waking day; two thousand millions of money, in one single article of property, annihilated by the emancipation of slaves; the contribution, forced by the conquerors, of the assumption by the rebellious population of their proportional part of the war debt and pension list created in subduing them—a contribution at least three times greater than that levied on France by the allies in 1815, which was computed at only fifty-five millions of sterling money, and at least four times greater than was more lately imposed upon Italy by needy and unscrupulous Austria, after the crowning overthrow of Novara; and worse than all material losses combined, that wound which nature never heals, innumbered sons slain in unvailing battle, and whose mangled forms will darken the watches of the night until life ends; such are the outlines only of that hideous misery which has fallen, almost with the suddenness of thunder from a bright sky, upon the so lately envied and happy South. If ever, it is now and here, that we should heed the admonition of the great English cardinal, who had himself, in his own person, illustrated so many of the vicissitudes of human fortune—

"Press not a falling man too far."

From the spirit which, contemplating a situation like this, could demand, not security, not indemnity, not guarantees, but more punishment, and merely for the sake of punishment, it is refreshing to turn to the closing scenes of that greatest epic of modern history, and, indeed, of all history,—the empire of the first Napoleon. Entering the gates of Paris, after the treaty of Paris, the King's brother, who afterwards reigned himself, met the marshals of the empire, headed by Ney, not with reproaches, but with these words: "Messieurs, you have illustrated the French arms; you have carried into countries the most remote the glory of the French name; the King claims your exploits; what has ennobled France can never be strange to him." A year later, when Paris capitulated, fifteen days after Waterloo, and with scarcely any other defenders than the fugitives who had escaped across the Sambre at the bridge of Charleroi, the conquerors freely stipulated that "nobody then in the capital should be persecuted in any respect for functions they had exercised, or for their political opinions or conduct." In all France the number subjected to penalties was insignificant.—"The allied powers," says Allison, "irritated beyond measure by the treachery and defection of the whole French army, and the perfidy with which the partizans of Napoleon had revolted to his side, insisted peremptorily upon measures of severity." But these "measures of severity," in a country with a population three times larger than that of the South, were only the execution of three persons, and the banishment of fifty-eight others.

It is consoling to know that the contrary example of indiscriminate proscription which now threatens to stain the history of America has no origin which marks it as the deliberate sense of Congress. This third section of the proposed amendment did not emanate from the Joint Committee of Reconstruction, nor did it form any part of the measure as originally adopted by the House. That body enacted a totally different provision—the exclusion of rebels from the ballot-box until 1870—a provision looking to security and not to punishment, and proceeding upon the theory that the fountain of power in popular government might be corrupted, unless time was given to change the tempers of men known to have been so lately disaffected. The actual measure submitted to the country, which does not look to security at all, which gives to every rebel immediate access to the ballot-box, and which makes certain the life-long continuance of rebel dispositions, by the irritation of a life-long proscription, was hatched in a Senatorial caucus, assembled for successive days under the sweltering sun of a Washington summer, controlled by we know not what passions, and perhaps reaching a final result as much by sheer fatigue, and the apparent necessity of coming to an agreement of some sort, as by a real and deliberate concurrence of opinions. But certain it is, at any rate, that this feature of proscription in the Constitutional amendment is an afterthought, and that it has been sprung upon the country at the last moment, and without warning or discussion.

In vain will it be attempted to reconcile us to it by either of the suggestions, that proscription already exists under the laws imposing test-oaths, or that whatever proscription is contained in this amendment is removable by a two-thirds vote of both branches of Congress. No existing proscription does or can apply to State officers by far the most numerous of all, and whatever xists may be modified by a mere majority of Congress. The American people will not stultify themselves by engrafting a provision into the Constitution merely with the hope that it will be nullified by Congress; they will not incur the risk of the factious temper of more than one-third of one of its branches; nor, finally, will they take upon themselves the odium of an unprecedented proscription, merely to give their representative servants the opportunity of earning a reputation for magnanimity at their expense.

Presented as this amendment is, to be ratified or rejected as a whole, there is no alternative but to reject it, trusting to the future to save what is good in it, and knowing that for the final loss of what is good, if that must needs happen, those only will be responsible who have inextricably confounded it with what is totally inadmissible. The preservation of the Union itself is even of more importance than the exact adjustment of the balance of power within the Union. The reconstruction of the Southern States, and especially of the lower Southern States, upon the basis of this amendment, is simply impossible. To adopt it is to insure war with them at the first moment that any political change, internal or external, renders it practicable for them to renew hostilities. Nothing but irresistible force will keep them quiet in the condition of political slavery to which it is proposed to reduce them. The terms of settlement which are offered are shameful, both, to the victors and the vanquished, and are more so to us than to them."

For the Sentinel.

The Lieut. Governorship.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—The time appointed for the election of State officers will soon come, and it is our duty, in selecting them, to discard all old political prejudices and party feelings and place our best men in power.

Gov. Worth, by his straight-forward, manly and conservative course, has won our admiration and approval, and we shall contribute our mite to retain him in the office he has, so far, occupied with commendable fidelity and impartiality.

Several prominent men have been named in connection with the new office of Lieut. Governor, which was created by our last Convention. There is one, however, whose claims upon the suffrages of the people have not, as yet, been spoken of. We allude to F. B. Satterthwaite, Esq., of Pitt County. He is well qualified for the position, and well worthy of the honor it would confer upon him. By his own unaided efforts, from a penniless boy, he has, by a determined will and perseverance, made himself a man, and true merit ought to be rewarded. His labors, not only in behalf of his own section, but the whole State, have never been appreciated. No legislator has toiled with more untiring zeal and energy to advance the interest and prosperity of the State, than Mr. Satterthwaite.

We suggest his name to the public. Should the people elect him, in our opinion they will never regret their choice.

MR. BRYANT'S LECTURE ON SATAN.—We had the pleasure of listening to this lecture last evening. The effort fully sustained Mr. Bryant's reputation as a man of genius, of great research and of uncommon oratorical powers. His theories are original, bold and daring, but certainly striking and plausible, to say the least. They were presented with a force which was conclusive of the lecturer's sincerity of conviction, and in a manner to invite thought and study. Portions of the lecture were really magnificent in point of eloquence, and showed that, with the advance of years, Mr. Bryant has lost none of his former fire and vigor. Mr. Bryant goes hence to Newbern, and other points, and we advise all to hear him, wherever he may go.

"The Watch Dog, or Sleeping man's Friend," is on exhibition at the store of Pulliam, Jones & Co. We have examined the apparatus, and, though not mechanicians enough to give a description of it, we may say that it seems admirably adapted to its purpose. It is, indeed, a striking and most ingenious invention. Call and examine it.

LOST.—A Lady's black thread-lace veil, on the Tarboro road, between town and Governor Manly's plantation. A suitable reward will be paid for its return to Col. Carr's Headquarters.

SCHOOL AT HENDERSON.—It will be seen, by the advertisement in another column, that Mr. Fred. A. Fetter, A. M., late a Tutor in the University of North Carolina, will commence a Male School in the town of Henderson, on the 6th. of August. Mr. Fetter is a fine scholar, of ripe experience. We trust that he may be successful in building up a flourishing institution at Henderson. There is every reason, certainly, why he should. The locality is healthy and the society excellent, and Mr. Fetter is every way qualified, socially and professionally, to conduct a first-class Academy.

CULTIVATION OF THE GRAPE.—A Company of gentlemen in Duplin have organized an association, looking to the cultivation of grapes on a large scale. This is a movement in the right direction. The best varieties of grape are indigenous to North Carolina, and a wide field of successful enterprise is opened up in connection with their culture.

WILSON COUNTY.—There will be a meeting of the Citizens of Wilson county, on Monday next, the 23d inst., to consider the propriety of appointing delegates to the District Convention, at Goldsboro, on the 25th., to select delegates to the National Union Convention at Philadelphia on the 14th of August next.

THE FASHIONS—The local of the Charlotte Times is enthusiastic over the fashions, as they exist in that city. Hear him:

"They are in town! We have seen them ourself with our naked eye. Yes, they were gaLorious! so pretty, such a nice shape, and evidently made to order. Yes those calves are here and they are nearly large enough to be cows. Then the tiltorenes, (we hope we spell it right,) they are exquisite, elegant. Let no one dare to say hereafter that Charlotte is not fashionable. We have calves, (and such pretty garters,) waterfalls, bonnets (!) about the size of a postage stamp, tilting shirts or tiltorenes, and we have so many other fashions, really our brain would become confused from the number and variety of our new fashions, were we not a man of great and decided experience. Then again, those tiltorenes, they are splendid, magnificent. We don't know who sells them in town—wish we did, we would puff him extensively. We want every body to wear them. We think of getting the agency. Why! it is a fortune in itself. Such glorious sights! Humph! we had better not say any more. But, if the ladies will adopt these new fashions, those tiltorenes, then we can't, and don't, and wont blame our young gentlemen for lounging, as they now do, on the front of our Churches, for the purpose of——"

THE PERPETUAL CALENDAR.—One of the first mathematical minds of this country, Prof. Charles Phillips, of the University of North Carolina, thus speaks of the Calendar, invented by James Rumley, Esq., of Beaufort, and patented by Col. S. D. Pool:

UNIVERSITY OF N. C.
Thursday, June 21, 1866.

COL. S. D. POOL,—Dear Sir:—I thank you for the pleasure I have had in examining your perpetual Calendar. It is a thing of beauty—simple, extensive and accurate. Every one who refers to dates ought to have a copy of it; the man of business, for the present; the student of history, for the past; and the dabbler in prophecy, for the future. To use it, with readiness and precision, one needs only brain enough to remember the year—the month of the year—the week of the month, and the day of the week, and this is about as little brain as one can get along with in these times. I found out at once some things I did not know before, viz: that the 4th of July 1776, happened on Thursday, and that the 4th of July 1876 will happen on Tuesday. Also, I was born on Thursday—a truth that is not in the family Bible. I am afraid you will never be paid for your trouble, for if the thing wont wear out, it wont get out of date.

Again I thank you for my treasure.

Yours Respectfully.
CHARLES PHILLIPS.

WE are informed by farmers throughout the Cape Fear district, that crops generally are by no means promising in this section of the State. Corn has been materially injured by the late dry weather, and the yield will be much lighter than was anticipated some weeks ago. The pea crop promises to be an indifferent one and farmers are only consoled by the hope that sweet potatoes may "turn out" unusually well—Wil. Dispatch.

NEWS BY THE MAILS.

The Cession of Venetia.

The surrender of Venetia to France by the Emperor Francis Joseph is complete and unconditional, and was accepted by the French Emperor after deliberate negotiation with Prince Metternich at the Tuilleries. Venice has been proclaimed free, and a French squadron is ordered to immediately proceed to hoist the French flag at all points of the coast. The Austrian army stores are to be removed from the fortresses of the Quadrilateral, which will be garrisoned by French troops. Italy is notified to discontinue military operations in that quarter. This is not likely to suit Victor Emmanuel, unless there be some private understanding between him and Napoleon. But should he disregard the monition, France becomes necessarily a party to the war.

Public Meeting in Pitt.

The citizens of Pitt County met in Greenville on the 14th inst. for the purpose of responding to the call of the National Union Club of the United States, to hold a National Convention in Philadelphia on the 14th of August.

Dr. Noah Joyner was called to the chair, and the meeting was addressed by Dr. Chas. J. O'Hagan and F. B. Satterthwaite, Esq., after which, the following preamble and resolution were proposed by Dr. O'Hagan, unanimously approved, and twenty delegates appointed to represent the County at Goldsboro:

WHEREAS, It is a fundamental principle of Republican governments that taxation and representation should go together, and whereas the South is heavily and unjustly taxed, while a malignant faction denies her representatives admission to the councils of the nation.

Therefore, Resolved, That we cordially approve of the proposed National Convention to be held in Philadelphia, on the 14th of August next, and respectfully suggest to other Counties that they hold primary meetings for the purpose of sending delegates to a District Convention, to meet in Goldsboro' on the 27th of this month, to select delegates to represent us in the Philadelphia Convention; and that twenty delegates be selected to represent this County in the Goldsboro Convention.

Public Meeting in Currituck.

At a meeting held at Currituck Court House, July 14th. 1866, pursuant to call, on motion of D. McD. Lindsey, Dr. J. J. Baxter was called to the chair, and W. B. Shaw and Dr. P. H. Simmons requested to act as Secretaries.

The Chairman explained the object of the meeting, in a few appropriate remarks, to be for the purpose of appointing delegates from the county to meet in Convention at Edenton, the first day of August next, which Convention is to appoint delegates from this Congressional District to attend a National Convention to assemble in the city of Philadelphia, on the 14th. of August, in response to a call from the conservative members of Congress.

The said call for a National Convention was unanimously endorsed and highly approved by this meeting, which, on motion of D. McD. Lindsey, appointed a committee of five, consisting of Jno. Jarvis, Thos. G. Munden, W. G. Granbery, Peter Parker and D. McD. Lindsey to name two delegates from each Captain's District to attend the District Convention.

During the retirement of the Committee, Capt. T. J. Jarvis, being called, responded in an able and eloquent manner.

The committee, having returned, reported the names of Wm. C. Mercer, Jno. I. Cox, T. L. Sanderson, W. S. Mercer, Capt. L. D. Starke, Wilson Sanderlin, A. O. Dey, T. F. Baxter, Louis Simmons, E. H. Walker, N. L. Walker, Daniel C. Lindsey, J. M. Woodhouse, Benj. Taylor, J. P. Aydlette, W. W. Chaddic, Chauncey Meekins, Jno. B. Etheridge, Hodges Gallop, Willis Partridge, S. B. Jarvis and C. B. Cason as delegates to said Convention; which, on motion, was adopted.

On motion of Capt. Jarvis, the Chairman, Secretaries and committee were added to the list.

On motion of W. G. Granbery, the proceedings of this meeting were ordered to be published in the Raleigh Sentinel, and that other papers in the State favorable to the cause be requested to copy the same.

When, on motion, the meeting adjourned.

J. J. BAXTER, Chairman.

W. B. SHAW,
P. H. SIMMONS, Secretaries.

Great Democratic Meeting in Pennsylvania,---A Prediction.

READING, PENN., July 19.

There was a great Democratic meeting here, yesterday, which was addressed by Montgomery Blair, Geo. H. Pendleton and others.

Mr. Blair predicted that, should the Radicals carry the October elections, the result would be the establishment of two Presidents and two Congresses, for the Radicals would then immediately impeach President Johnson and turn him out, while, on the other hand, the Democratic members of Congress would unite with the regularly elected members from the South. He also warned his hearers that they were on the eve of another civil war, the battle-field of which would be in the North, while the South would remain a unit.

Congress---Important Proceedings,---Tennessee Ratifies the Constitutional Amendment.

WASHINGTON, July 19, P. M.

SENATE.—The Senate passed a bill, appropriating $50,000 for the relief of the Portland sufferers.

The House resolution to adjourn on the 25th was laid on the table.

The bill to fund the National debt was taken up, and an amendment adopted, prohibiting the deposit of money in the National Banks, where there is a U. S. Depository. The bill was passed. It provides for the payment of $180,000,000 annually on the principal and interest of the debt. Another provision authorizes the excess of gold to be sold for U. S. notes in open market, when the sum in the Treasury is above $50,000,000.

Mr. Trumbull offered a joint resolution recognizing Tennessee as a State entitled to all guaranties and rights. Ordered to be printed.

HOUSE.—Stevens offered a resolution, (the Senate concurring) that when Congress adjourns, it adjourn to meet on Saturday, Dec. 1, unless sooner called together,—which power, in case of emergency, is hereby granted to the presiding officers of both Houses. Objection being made to considering the resolution now, Stevens withdrew it, but gave notice that he would offer it to-morrow.

Mr. Bingham called up the joint resolution, months ago reported from the Reconstruction Committee, providing for the admission of Tennessee.

Stevens opposed it by a motion to lay on the table.

Mr. Bingham offered a substitute to at once restore the State to its former relations to the general government. Pending the subject, the House adjourned.

This new-born zeal was superinduced by the reception of a telegram from Gov. Brownlow, announcing that the House of Representatives of Tennessee had ratified the Constitutional amendment, by yeas 43, nays 11.

No Family at the South Should be Without Them.

The late Col John Wright, of Goldsboro', N. C. Aug 14 1862. says: "I have used the SOUTHERN HEPATIC PILLS in my family here and also on my plantation in Alabama, and always with success I have a valuable servant girl who had been a long time under treatment for consumption without receiving any benefit. Almost in her extremity I was induced to try the Hepatic Pills. They were given according to directions, and she is now well, entirely restored by them. A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!

DR. MAGGIEL is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeeble the stomach and paralyze the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite, with from one to two of his exaordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all healing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the [so called] remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box full taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no sacrifice in the form of constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions are restored; and if the nervous system is feeble it is invigorated. This last quality makes the medicine very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Urgeons and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disenfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that Maggiel's Bilious, Dyspeptic and Diarrhea Pills cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts and all abrasions of the skin Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. MAGGIEL, 43 Fulton Street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cts. per box. Sold by all Druggists in Raleigh.

A BOON TO THE SICK AND THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD.

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS AND SALVE.

These Life-giving remedies are now given publicly to the world. For over a quarter of a century of private practice the ingredients in these

A Box Will be sent Free
